

Freedom of Information request: Reference number FOI2026/00880

Date of request: 29th July

Request:

I would like to know what the service's policy is on listing stations when publishing an incident on the incident page.

1. Specifically, I'd like to know what concerns the service had identified, what the reasoning and/or views the service had when deciding that information would be something they would include for incidents.

2. What was for publishing them?

3. What was against publishing them?

I ask this information because I am interested in why some brigades list stations and others don't and the reasons behind this.

Response:

Thank you for your request for information received on 29 July 2026. The request has been considered under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA).

The request relates to the publication of fire station information on the London Fire Brigade's public incident page, including any recorded rationale or consideration given to this approach.

The London Fire Brigade's Communications Team, who have responsibility for the public incident pages have confirmed that no documented policy, decision record, assessment, business case, or other recorded rationale is held in relation to the inclusion of fire station information on the public incident page.

We have dealt with your request under the Freedom of Information Act 2000. For more information about making information requests, please visit our website: <https://www.london-fire.gov.uk/about-us/transparency/request-information-from-us/>
